

Greetings!

All that we have in store for you just keeps getting better! From an engaging session on the play of materials and colours needed for impeccable design, to guiding you through the marble buying process and revamping your space, we come with the best updates this time.

Training the Trainers!

We took the mason community under our wing at our 'Mason Tiling Program' in Tonk, Rajasthan, as part of the Pradhan Mantri Kaushal Vikas Yojna (PMKVY), in association with Learnet Skills Limited, the largest vocational skills company in the country.

This initiative, which will also take place in Dattalur, Andhra Pradesh and Chhindwara, Madhya Pradesh, aims at supporting the growth of quality infrastructure, improving skills, building livelihood and opportunities across India via a certified Training Program for Masons.

As more opportunities open up in the Building Materials industry, it is imperative that the relevant communities are equipped with the right knowledge and skills to build expertise and showcase professional competency.

Play of Material & Colours at #NITCOTalks

Interior design involves strong aesthetic sensibilities and psychology, often related to colour. That's what our varied eminent panelists talked about, in our recent #NITCOTalks!

The designer is responsible for creating the concept, the mood and shaping the user experience. Colour is key to the feel and the tone of a space, while materials complement the mood.

Watch Vivek Talwar, NITCO-MD and Anikaa Wasan, Head BD in an in-depth discussion with the industry's finest designers like Natasha Aggarwal, Ar. Shalini Chandrasekar and Maninder Kaur.

Learn about the beautiful play of materials and colours from the best and how they do it!
